对话

Don: Honey, today is our class reunion. All my classmates are coming. We haven't seen one another for a long time.

Daisy: Honey, I'm so excited. I miss all my girl friends. We used to play and study together every day. It's my good old days.

Don: Yes, we were puppy-lovers. Our teacher was so angry when he saw us holding hands. I wonder if our teacher Mr. Duck will come to the reunion or not.

Daisy: I hope to see Mr. Duck. He always said that I was the best student in the class. I was the Model Duck.

Don: I wonder what our old classmates would say. They said I was so short. They didn't think I could win your love. You were so tall and beautiful.

Daisy: What did you say? I WAS beautiful? I am still beautiful. Don't use past tense.

Don: But, after all. We got married. And we are happy. Look at our cute babies.

Daisy: They look like me. That's why they are cute.

Don: Yes! I am tall now. But, I am still ugly.

Daisy: Oh! Honey, it's O.K.. You are a very good duck and a good husband, too.

Don: Thank you. Hey! I remember there was a very strange duck in our class. He was gray, not yellow like us. We duckling were supposed to be yellow. But he was gray.

Daisy: And his neck was so long. How weird. We didn't like him at all. We didn't talk to him or play with him. He was all alone.

Don: Do you remember his name? What's his name?

Daisy: I don't remember. I only remember his nickname.

Don: What was his nickname?

Daisy: We all called him "Ugly Duckling."

Don: Yes, I remember it now. Oh! My Honey, you are so smart.

Daisy: Hey! Look! Who is coming? What a beautiful and elegant white swam! Is he a prince? Or he must be a nobleman! Or is he a movie star? I have to talk to him. I have to know him.

Don: Honey! Honey! Wait.....

Daisy: Hi, nice to meet you. My name is Daisy. What's your name?

Mr. Swam: I am Mr. Swam.

Don: Why do you come to our reunion? We are all ducks.

Mr. Swam: I was your classmate! I was the Ugly Duckling. And I remember you were very bad to me.

Don: What!! You are Ugly Duckling!

Don & Daisy: You are so different!
